Professional Development Workshop

Before searching for a job, it is important to know which position to look for by drawing on career exploration, self-assessment, career goal planning. Once you know which titles to look for, it's critical that your online presence and personal brand are ready and you have the confidence of a mock interview under your belt. Now that you're ready, how do you know where to look?

1. Attend job search training or other PROS designated professional development workshop and complete reflection
 - a. Please note your name, UNG email, and date in the top left of your paper
 - i. Example:
Daryl Dixon
DHDixon1234@ung.edu
March 15, 2010
2. In no less than 200 words, provide a brief overview of the event and describe what you took away from the experience.
 - i. Submit your reflection to the PROS D2L "Professional Development Workshop Reflection" assignment submission folder.
 1. Name the file: your first and last name followed by "Professional Development Workshop" and the date (MM.DD.YY)
 - a. Example:
DarylDixonProfessionalDevelopmentWorkshop03.15.2010
